Zulu is a robust variety with good all-round agronomic characteristics and good grain quality. Zulu has attributes that growers and end users require in a biscuit variety and is suited to a range of markets including distilling, making Zulu ideal for growing in Northern parts of the UK and Scotland.

Zulu also carries resistance to SBCMV. Although the distribution of this disease is low in the UK, incidence would appear to be increasing, and variety resistance is essential for growers in the regions affected, to guarantee good crop returns.
